About

I'm Rodrigo (aka Roi), digital developer & designer that shares the time between Buenos Aires and Athens, Greece. I love to travel, and I am a big fan of learning new technologies, to make things move and look stunning on a screen, working with creative and polished designs, and constantly improve my knowledge on web and app development. I worked on an big array of projects and companies in the last 10+ years doing websites, apps (on multiple platforms), designs and backends.

FromScratch Design Studio
September 2007 - November 2009

Senior Web Developer

🔗 https://www.fromscratch.us

One of my best work experiences. FromScratch Design Studio created an amazing, creative and collaborative environment following Google's philosophy of workspace. I started as a flash developer working on websites, marketing campaigns and promotion movie websites. I also worked on labs section, doing research and experiments.

fromscratch.us (offline now) won several awards and acknowledgments.

Página/12
January 2005 - June 2006

System Administrator and Data Entry

🔗 https://www.pagina12.com.ar/

Although I had the possibility to contribute with some coding (flash widgets to the journal website, like interactive fixtures for the WorldCup 2006, or some basic restyling with html/css), my main task was to migrate content from the newspaper printable content QuarkXPress to the website's admin. I learned a lot of Unix and networking during those days.
